

It has just been brought to my attention that because of possible LPFM stations, K-LOVE and other stations heard on FM translators will be forced off the air. I believe in K-LOVE enough that I donate some of my personal income to help cover K-LOVE expenses and help K-LOVE further its broadcasting.

K-LOVE is one of the few decent Christian radio stations in this area, if not the only decent Christian radio station in this area. I travel a lot, and being able to tune into K-LOVE keeps me in high spirits. It is very inspirational and up lifting. I love being able to listen to clean lyrics of songs that have contemporary beats behind them. To take this away would affect my life in a great way. Shutting down K-LOVE in this area would not only affect my personal life, but it would also affect the community. We had a local Christian radio station that sold out for money. For a while there was no contemporary Christian station. Adults, teens, and children were all affected by that. There was nothing truly positive and up lifting to listen to on the radio. I work with teens on a regular basis and several note K-LOVE and other Christian stations as saving their lives literally and spiritually.

I have worked with several teens that were in the midst of suicidal thought but because a certain song was played over the radio by stations such as K-LOVE they noted that it reminded them of the love that God had for them. Even if everything else was going wrong in life, inspirational stations like K-LOVE helped these teens to keep focused on the positive things in life. They offer hotlines for abused spouses, teens, children, drug addicts, unwed mothers, etc. There are so many things that K-LOVE does that truly benefits not just my community but communities across the country. To shut this down would be a complete shame. Teens don't always think rationally, nor do drug abusers, unwed mothers, etc. I would hate to think that because the one thing that can get through to people the most, music, in this case Christian music from stations such as K-LOVE, gets shut down that a teen might take their life, a girl might have an abortion that could lead to so many other problems down the road, or a drug abuser might over dose. I personally would not want to be responsible for that. K-LOVE does so much across the country. Please take into consideration the positive influence that K-LOVE has when you go to make a decision that might possibly shut it down.
